

Job Title: Podcast Guest Researcher

Purpose: The Healing and Cancer Foundation needs your help to find guests for our Podcast.

Expectations and Responsibilities:

- The Podcast Guest Researcher will research online looking nationally and internationally for remarkable survivors of cancer. The guests will be wise souls with engaging stories, articulate and heartfelt. A bonus would be that they have written a book, have a good social media following, have their own blog or are part of a larger not-for-profit.
- When you have researched the person in detail, and believe them to be a potential podcast guest, you pass their story and contact information to our Podcast Coordinator.

'The ask' is: that the guest brings their authentic self to the program (vulnerability included), to share their story and the stories of healing from the cancer world. They may choose to offer the opening blessing, read a favorite poem, or lead a guided meditation.

Time Requirements: This is a 12 month project, starting immediately.

Skills and Qualifications: Friendly, authentic, self-motivated, proactive and a great researcher.

Orientation and Training: There will be a one-hour orientation and training session with Dr. Rutledge, Rita Kindl Myers and Maureen Holmes. You will be given an overview of the Foundations purpose, mission, values, programs and goals. Followed by an overview of the Podcasts and your role as a team member. Visit www.healingandcancer.org/podcast to see previous episodes.

Benefits: This fulfilling role will allow you to use your excellent research skills. You will be a key factor in helping people who have been given a cancer diagnosis learn from the Podcast panel and guests.

Job Location: Orientation will be in person or via Google Hangouts. The weekly work can be carried out from your home.

Contact: Sally Alshazly at sally@alshazly.com